BLAYNEY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BLAYNEY, THURSDAY.

The show in connection with the Blayney Agricultural and Pastoral Association commenced to-day. The weather had been wet for two or three days previously, and owing to this, and to the fact that no exhibits in the stock classes, comprising some seven or eight sections, were to be shown till the second day, the attendance was not so large as was expected.

The quality, however, of a good deal of the produce shown was excellent. There were two exhibits of wheat, two of white oats, one of English barley, two of black oats, and one of white. Much of this produce was good, but it was scarcely what might be expected in a district which is essentially a farming district. There was a fair show of vegetables, including pumpkins, melons, potatoes, carrots, parsnips, onions, cabbages, and turnips—the latter especially creditable. There was a capital display of fruit as to quality, but the number of entries was small; the same may be said of colonial wine and dairy produce. Exhibits of fresh butter were numerous, and the Candelo Butter Company had a quantity of their butter entered. In the section devoted to flowers and plants there was a creditable show, the pot plants being specially noticeable. The best of these was a non-competitive collection of plants from Marshall's Nurseries.

In miscellaneous colonial manufactured articles the exhibits were very few. The section devoted to machinery was well attended, and better than any, there being only a few exhibits in the latter section, many of them very good. The exhibits of machinery were not very numerous. Chambers, of Blayney, exhibited patent broadcast seed-sower; Heaton, Brothers, had an assortment of single double furrow and subsoil ploughs, corn-drills, classifiers, and foot threshing machines; Martin and Paine of Sydney, had a fair collection of machinery, comprising Althaus's windmill, an improved combined reaper, and mowers and stripping machines.

The weather at present is fine, and should it hold up the attendance on Friday, when all the entries will be in, is expected to be considerably larger than it is to-day.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE GARDEN PALACE.

There was last night a larger attendance than has been assembled at any of these concerts. From 5000 to 6000 persons must have been present. From many points of view, the work was imposing. The attractions were great. The work of Verdi's "Macbeth" was the feature. The work of Verdi's "Macbeth" was the feature. The work of Verdi's "Macbeth" was the feature.

The final performance of the Austrian Band will be at the fancy dress ball to be held, by request, at the Garden Palace, on Monday evening next. The band will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor, and of most of the influential families of Sydney. The programme is a very attractive one, which will benefit the public charities, as 10 per cent. of the gross receipts are to be distributed among them.

Mr. T. B. Barker, of the Melbourne Lyceum, is to be the guest of the Garden Palace, on Tuesday next, April 6. It will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor, and of most of the influential families of Sydney. ALBURY ANNUAL RACE MEETING.

FIRST DAY.

ALBURY, THURSDAY.

Although threatening weather prevailed this morning, it cleared up in time to allow the races to be commenced, and a fine afternoon ensued. The morning weather prevented a large attendance, but a number of passengers availed themselves of the excursion trains from Wagga. The local public patronised the meeting in good numbers, and as the rain appears to hold off a very much larger attendance may be expected to-morrow. The new club have instituted many essential reforms, and its meeting may be considered a great success. The official results under the heading of Mr. G. Roberts answered their purpose admirably, and were well patronised. The following are the results of to-day's racing:—

THE MOUNT BROWNE RUSH.

[BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.]

Mount Browne, a distance of 100 miles from Willemans, for a new field claims a fair share of notoriety, and as gold has been found in small quantities, the result of the working, it is calculated, will be watched with considerable interest.

This rush, I may mention, has been followed up for the past six weeks, and with what effect and success I will presently show. I left Sydney on the 17th February, and in the morning of the 23rd arrived at Willemans, at a time when everything had reached the zenith of excitement, and the discovery of gold was the absorbing topic. So great was the interest taken in the matter by the inhabitants that the gold from several miles round was brought to the place, and a little market was held, where the gold was sold at a high price.

Before leaving Willemans, I was pointed up by argument to the best course to pursue on reaching the field, and having received from Mr. Steel, the police magistrate, some valuable information, together with a sketch map, I set out on Tuesday, the 1st March. From the outset it was evident that things were not as they should be. The horses were poor, they were likewise water-carrying, and the driver was unacquainted with the road, and it was not until the morning of the eighth day that we arrived at the scene of the rush. Of accidents and incidents much could be recorded, but for the present I will confine my remarks briefly to the nature of the road, and instance the difficulties and stoppages.

The diggings, as I stated, are 100 miles from Sydney, and are situated in a hilly country, the hills being of a volcanic nature, and are of a dark, almost black, color. The diggings are situated in a hilly country, the hills being of a volcanic nature, and are of a dark, almost black, color.
